Kite In The Mind – Wednesday Nights
“A Brand New Way of Socializing”

DALLAS, Texas (November 18, 2011) – Beyond Style Personal Development Services is changing the way people socialize. Beginning December 7, 2011 the company will begin hosting a series of weekly events titled: “Kite in the Mind – Wednesday Nights” as a part of their upcoming audio book promotion. People throughout Dallas and the surrounding areas can benefit from these informative, inspiring and priceless social gatherings this holiday season.

The CEO makes it clear that these are not networking events but specially designed social gatherings intended for the purpose of exchanging constructive thought with like-minded individuals. It’s a different kind of happy hour that encourages self-confidence without the promotional use of alcohol.

The company’s ultimate goal is to empower individuals to change their lives the natural way by changing their thoughts. The Image Enhancer states that it was during her quest that she realized the countless benefits of living inspired and how this knowledge is fundamentally essential to an all-around-successful life. “Inspiration is the natural response to a higher consciousness and I want to explain how people can begin to live inspired. I’ve met so many people who find it almost impossible to inspire themselves and it should not be that way,” says The Image Enhancer.

The company’s thought-based approach to helping their client change their lives for the better goes beyond private office consultations beginning next month. They are also scheduled to launch their new “The Kite in the Mind Collection,” apparel that inspires. These USA made T-shirts will be available for sale online beginning November 25, 2011. They believe that inspiration is what so many people need at every turn, whether that be an audio book, an e-book, an apparel collection of T-shirts or a “Kite in the Mind – Wednesday Night” weekly social gathering. The company feels strongly that their services are in demand in the mind of many in these uncertain times.
